

Medium At Large In The Bridge House This Thursday

THE man known as 'Ireland's Medium' Tom Colton brings his national tour to Tullamore this Thursday night, October 1, in the Bridge House.

Ireland's foremost spiritualist medium, he is bringing his 'Feel the Spirit Tour' to Tullamore as part of fifty dates right across the country.

Tom is well known for his national TV and radio appearances and recently kicked off the tour with successful events in Cavan, Kildare, Munster and Galway where he demonstrated his abilities in front of hundreds of people.

As a spiritualist medium Tom Colton is able to connect with the spirits of the bereaved and is the only known medium to allow those he reads to feel the energy of their loved ones in the same way he does.

Tom believes that everyone has the ability to connect and communicate with spirit in the way he does "they just have to learn how, there is no special gift" he says, "it is literally an ability everybody has".

Thought provoking, gripping, and often astounding, Tom brings comfort to those he reads for and his genuine approach has won him many friends.

Tom adds: "It is great to be back in Offaly, I always enjoy myself here and get a great reaction from people that I read for. The demonstrations we have done so far have gone down really well so I'm looking forward to this week's event."

Participants are requested to bring a photograph of a bereaved loved one they would like to Tom to connect with, but there must be no writing on photo and only the person they are looking to connect with must be in the picture.

All tickets are only €20 with an 8pm start. For further details please see www.tom-colton.com or call 0860234164.

Tom Colton has communicated and interacted with spirits since he was a child, though it was not until Tom's uncle, Richard, died in 2001, that he started reconnecting with spirit world as an adult.

During the past eight years Tom has developed his skills as a medium studying at the world renowned Arthur Findlay College in Stansted, near London, the world's foremost college for the advancement of spiritualism and psychic sciences.

He has also completed many courses on spirituality at the National Federation of Spiritualist Healing (a charitable trust now called the Healing Trust).

A 'spiritualist medium' is someone who can communicate with the spirits of people who have passed away. Mediums are the conduit through which the living can make contact with the dead.

A medium is a person who has developed their spiritual knowledge and uses this to form a link between this world and the 'spirit world'. It must, however, be remembered that everybody has the capability to be a medium of some kind, it is just that not everybody knows how to interpret the correct signs.
